

EDITED BY
M. S. WOODCOCK,
ATTORNEY AT LAW.
OFFICIAL PAPER FOR BENTON COUNTY,
REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

By order of the Republican State Central Committee, a Republican convention for the state of Oregon is called to meet at Portland, on Thursday, April 20th 1882, at 11 o'clock A. M. for the purpose nominating candidates for Representative to Congress, Judge of the Supreme Court, Governor, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, State Printer, Superintendent of Public Instruction, District officers in the several judicial districts and to transact any other business that may come before the convention.

The committee passed a resolution recommending that all delegates elected to this convention attend personally, so far as possible, or by proxies residing in the counties to be represented.

PUBLICITY AND COUNTY CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Republican county central committee, for Benton county, called to order by Hon. A. M. Williams, chairman, on last Wednesday, the number of delegates for the several precincts to the county convention was apportioned on the vote of State printer Odell, at the ratio of one delegate for each twenty votes and one also for each fraction over ten, and one delegate at large for each precinct, which resulted in giving to the several precincts the following number of delegates:

Seap Creek, 4; Corvallis, 12; Willamette, 2; Monroe, 6; King Valley, 5; Alsea, 2; Summit, 1; Yaquina, 3; Midway, 3; Philomath, 7; Elk City, 2; Tum Tum, 2; Lower Alsea, 2; Toledo, 2; Tillamook, 1.

It was ordered by the committee, that the county convention be held in each of the several precincts, on Tuesday, the 4th day of April next, at the hour of 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and that the county convention meet at the Court house in this place, on Saturday, the 8th day of April next, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon. It was recommended that the County Convention elect delegates to the State convention at the same time when they nominate for county officers.

THE POLITICAL POT

Again comes to the front having the audacity and brazen-faced impudence to claim that the insinuations under that name are innocent and that because some of County Treasurer Williams' most active supporters at the time of his election urged that he was in very straightened circumstances, that, therefore, they had the right to publish of and concerning him that "Treasurer Williams claims to be a county charge and could not wage through this dreary world without a five-hundred-dollar salary from Benton." If such is a fair sample of Democratic warfare or Democratic journalism in Benton, we are glad to know it. If this is "an improvement" under the new management as well as a disposition to discuss all questions in a candid, open and honorable manner or even in an honest manner, we are glad to know it. If the best citizens of our county are to be maligned, vilified, traduced, slandered and all kinds of libellous matter are to be published about them in the coming campaign in like manner as in campaigns already passed by a sheet managed and run in the interest of a few street corner politicians whose only object is their own advancement to some official position, regardless of any expense to truth, honor or respectability, we are glad to know this also. Whether these things are so or not, as a public journalist we shall feel it an important duty to call attention to these at any and all times, when in our judgment, any of our best citizens have been wrongfully assailed, regardless of the political persuasion of the party thus wronged. A public journal owes no further duty to politics than to be honest in its convictions and to advocate them in an honest manner and the same is due to every good citizen.

Whether Mr. Williams desires a re-nomination or not we do not know, and if he does or does not, desire it, or if his most earnest supporters said that he was in straightened circumstances, has nothing to do with the matter. If they said so, Mr. Williams is no doubt a poor man, he does not claim to be anything else, yet it is no offense to be poor, neither was it any offense for his supporters to say that he was in straightened circumstances when they were telling the truth. But we can not say that it is not an offense to publish language indicating that he would become a county charge unless re-elected.

THE OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD.

We had hoped that the unscrupulous and disgraceful attacks on our railroad and its officers which so frequently disgraced the columns of the Oregonian during the last month were the work of the young men of the office during the "hoss" absence, and that when Mr. Harvey Scott returned from his holiday no more would appear. We were mistaken. Hardly a day passes without a fresh fire, each one as defiant of truth, as regardless of decency, as its predecessor. The paper descends to pick up day by day the mud of proved and malignant falsehoods, and to hurl them broadcast, in hope that some may stick. Small thanks to these defamers if no harm is done by them. If they could have spoiled or stopped the Oregon Pacific, if they could have poisoned the minds of its supporters here and in the East and induced them to withdraw their hands, if they could have blackened the characters of the President and the other officials of the road, what a snigger of satisfaction we should have heard. What hurts the Oregonian, and not less those who inspire or suborn it, is that like a scolding, long-tongued shrewish jade, it can only annoy and cannot injure. Nothing is a better advertisement of the real merit of the Oregon Pacific than the increasing efforts of the Oregonian to cripple it. In old times when the little Yaquina railroad was all we hoped for, the Oregonian only sneered, now it abuses. What weapons it descends to. A day or two ago it fudged up again the old story about the Yaquina lying off the bar for six days unable to enter, when it has been passing in all the valleys papers, and the Oregonian knows well enough, that the steamer left Astoria on Friday afternoon and was back there on Tuesday morning, and after looking in at Yaquina at nine o'clock on Sunday morning was never afterwards within ten miles of the place. The wit of the Oregonian, or what passes for such, is to join names together, in order to try to insult the owners of them. It lifts up its hands in holy horror at the Oregon Pacific giving stock with its bonds, though it knows its own precious patrons set the example. It says questions are "mooted up in the gallery" as to the "trustworthiness of the Hogs-Nash promises" when it should have said "in our back stairs office" instead of "up the valley." It says "litterer nothing is being done," when work has never stopped for a single hour, and the forces are actually being largely increased, and the material for a large supply of rolling stock is in the act of arrival at the Bay. It says the Oregon Pacific people "didn't have the money last year when they professed to have it," while the evidence of the possession of the money in the material and labor purchased by it are before all our eyes. But the catalogue of the slanders of the Oregonian would be not only too long, but too uninteresting for us to pursue. We should have followed the same course of silence which we notice is being taken by Col. Hogg and W. Nash, but we know that the local journals of Oregon circulate in the East as well as the Oregonian and probably are quite as much read and perhaps more trusted. And we consider it the duty of the Valley press, of all political colors, to show the estimation in which the articles in this "leading journal" of Oregon are held in its own State.

THE REAL CAUSE OF THE OREGONIAN ANTICS.

The Portland Oregonian in several issues during the last few weeks has been attacking the Oregon Pacific Railroad and Messrs. Wallis Nash and Col. Hogg, and in a manner which it pretends to unearth some great and important things to its readers. The real cause of these uncalculated attacks and insinuations made against these gentlemen and the railroad which they are building is truly laughable to those who understand the situation. The reason which prompts the Oregonian to devote so much space and attention to that subject are found in the book lately written by Wallis Nash entitled "Two Years in Oregon." The passage alluded to is recognized by every reader of the Oregonian to be so literally true that it cannot be successfully disputed in any particular. It reads as follows:

"The Oregonian is the only journal in the State giving the latest telegrams. Naturally it is published in Portland, and devoted mainly to the interests of that city. It is connected with the Associated Press, and possesses the practical monopoly of the supply of news, properly so called. Professing to be Republican in politics, it assumes the liberty of advocating and supporting candidates for office in direct violation of the acknowledged principles of the party and the wishes of the party managers. With a parade of fairness and willingness to admit to its columns views and communications opposing the ideas it may be advocating at the time, it takes care to color matters in such form as to present or weaken opponents or criticize matters. It is bitterly hostile to every movement in the Willamette valley tending toward independence of Portland's money power and influence. While professing to desire the development of the State, it reads that to mean solely the aggrandizement of Portland. It enjoys a happy facility of conversion, and will unblushingly advocate to-day the adoption of measures it denounced last week. Unreliable in every thing except its telegraphic news, and oftentimes seeking to color them by suggestive headlines and capital announcements, it is a calamity to the state that its chief journal should be at once the most unpopular at home and the most misleading abroad."

It is amusing how the Oregonian squirms when she has matters placed before her in such a manner as to enable her to see herself as others see her.

HE HAS COME AND THE VICTIMIZER HAS GONE.

An exchange not far distant takes a lively interest in our welfare. The same kindly spirit only a few weeks ago before quitting our employ generously wrote to Portland without our knowledge or consent and brought all the way from that place a gentleman to take charge of the printing department of our office without consulting us until after his arrival and also before permitting our services in order that we might be able to secure help satisfactory to us. We did not bite at this act of generosity. We did not think this friend's power by the simple fact of being in our employ extended so far as to authorize him to take charge of our affairs and deal out our positions to his own satisfaction. In short, we did not deem it necessary at that time to have this party act as our guardian. Few other men would have assumed to perpetrate such an outrage on his fellow man. No sir, Mr. Woodcock is not tired of editorial honors. After having been victimized for the last ten months in almost every conceivable way in the printing department of our office, Mr. Garretson has arrived whom we have thus far found to be a gentleman in every particular, and who is one of the best job printers on the coast, and he will no doubt materially assist us in making up the time which has been squandered for us during the last ten months at the rate of from 1 to 2 and 3 hours per day and for which, during all of that time we were paying high wages. This, however, might not have been done with a view to wronging us, but simply from the fact that sometimes persons are so habitually constituted that they have a general quarrel with work and do not care to do much of it if they can manage to get the money for it by rendering as little equivalent as possible.

It might also be well for other newspapers to consider that unless their printing office is managed more fairly, economically and with less waste of time and material than ours has been for the last ten months that they may also have to send and bring a competent man from a distance, who will recognize it to be his duty to render a just equivalent for his salary.

THE WORLD RENOWNED FALSI-FIER.

The Oregonian has for a long time been particularly noted for perverting the truth and distorting and twisting facts to every conceivable shape in order to meet its own selfish ends and for the purpose of pleasing the one master whom it worships everything to serve to such an extent that the people no longer look for a fair representation of truth in its editorial columns.

She has taken particular pains to follow this course in treating of the Oregon Pacific Railroad and the managers of that company as well as all public enterprises of which Mr. Villard does not approve. Some institutions as well as persons are so constituted by nature, however, that they cannot refrain from falsehood when the truth is more easily told and will answer their purpose as well. If the editorial manager of the Oregonian owed Satan a debt payable in liars and after a proper tender if he should refuse to take the Oregonian in full satisfaction of the debt besides paying to its managers a premium amounting to her full intrinsic value they undoubtedly would be excusable for afterwards repudiating the debt.

THE OREGON PACIFIC.

The managers of the Oregon Pacific Railroad are making extensive arrangements and all preparations necessary to commence active work with a large force to speedily put the railroad through from the Yaquina. Some large contracts have been let and more will no doubt soon be consummated. In spite of the bitter opposition of Mr. Villard to this enterprise and the abuse heaped upon it and its managers by the Portland paper the Oregonian, this work so important to the people of Oregon will soon be in full operation and will be pushed with the utmost vigor to completion.

Minister Sargent expects to leave for Germany about the 6th of next month.

The Oregon Register chronicles the finding of a large tooth recently on the Yamhill river weighing 11 lbs.

Nearly a quarter of a million sacks of potatoes have been imported from Europe since the first of January.

Mr. J. Brush, of Albany, Oregon, has obtained a patent for a grain separator, we see by the list of patents for last week.

There are over 200,000 sheep around Hepper within a radius of about twenty miles. The wool from these yields about $240,000.

It is said that there will be driven from Eastern Oregon by the different cattle men this spring, 35,000 head of cattle for the Eastern markets.

It is said that an effort will be made at the coming Legislature to have the county of Wasco divided and make Prineville the new county seat.

The match between the American and British riflemen takes place in September, at Creedmoor. The return match will be shot at Wimbledon.

There is a big dog show at Pittsburgh. There are 500 canine specimens on exhibition, some of which are valued as high as $10,000, $5000 and $2500.

Snow in the mountains varies from three to five feet in depth, and places miners are happy. The indications are good for an unusually large output from the placer mines this season.

Mr. Thomas Benbow of Garfield Co., W. T., says that last harvest he threshed on Pataha prairie 31,000 bushels of grain from 325 acres of land, being an average of over 32 bushels to the acre.

The Baker City Tribune says: Clark & Johnson have struck a rich quartz vein on Onion creek, forty miles west of Baker City, an assay from which shows $300 in gold and twenty-nine ounces of silver.

Mr. Charles Green left at the Tribune sanctum last week some fine specimens of silver quarried from the Blue Dick and other mines on Garret river, some of which assays over 1000 ounces silver to the ton. The vein is quite large and grows richer and larger as the depth of the shaft increases.

Philomath Notes.

The spring term of school at the College closed on Friday, with an examination of the class and a public entertainment in the evening to a large audience, where all did well. The essays and orations were original and showed great pains in their preparation and delivery. Many of the students have gone away, some to their homes, others to teaching, working on the railroad, etc., and all with full purpose of replenishing their finances and return again next winter to pursue their studies.

The Democratic primary meeting was held at Wilcox's hall. Ten Democrats and fifteen or twenty Republicans were present. Mr. E. Skipton the Democratic ward chief of this precinct called the house to order and stated the object of the meeting. On motion of M. H. Parker, Mr. S. was nominated as chairman. Mr. Skipton put the motion himself and declared it elected. After balloting three times, the following gentlemen were duly elected delegates to the county convention viz, Joseph Liggett, E. Skipton, J. Mays, Isaac Parker and A. Belton. The chairman in his zeal to roll on the wheels of Democracy would put the motions and then vote upon them himself. So soon as the delegates were elected the ground and to make a speech pointing in glowing terms to the victories that await the Democrats in the approaching campaign, said he had put on the feathers and war paint and if the Republicans were not warmed up it would be no fault of his. The tried, true and faithful Democratic gentlemen who were present and who have set around the council fires of Democracy from their youth up, are not in favor of elevating rose-headed Republicans and new converts to places of honor and trust in the party until they are fully instructed in the principles of Democracy and show by their works that they are in good faith and not actuated by selfish and mercenary motives. It will take at least five years of probation and good faithful work before such persons will be eligible to office.

Mrs. Fairclie who with her husband came to our town last fall, died on the morning of the 21st inst. after a long and painful illness of more than two months. She would never consent to have medical aid but trusted to nature and what her own folks could do for her.

CORRESPONDENT.

King's Valley Letter.

EDITOR GAZETTE.—Nothing has happened to disturb the quiet serenity of this valley for several days. Not since our late snow storm when we all received such a blowing up and such snowing under as made us think of building snow houses after the manner of the esquimaux and retiring for the winter. Now it seems as if Spring was upon us. The grass is growing leaves, trees and flowers are putting forth their best efforts.

There has been considerable plowing done and some sowing. If the weather is at all favorable the farmers here will be through seeding by the 1st of May very easily.

Last Saturday the Democrats held their primary. The delegates are Messrs. David Ramsell, Hiram Wood Sr., Jeff Frantz and Wm. Burgett.

Our new merchants are doing their best toward keeping a first class store. They have just received a large stock from Portland which added to that already on hand enables them to compete with any store in the country either in prices or quality of goods.

The people in this vicinity are waiting anxiously for the Oregon Pacific R. R. Co. to begin active operations and hoping for an early completion of the road.

Mr. Wm. Reid brought his road, the Narrow Gauge, to within five miles of King's Valley and stopped; and what the intention of the company is which now owns the road, we do not know; but presume that it will ultimately connect with the Yaquina Road via King's valley.

We hear the Hon. John Kelsay mentioned as candidate for Governor at the coming election. As Mr. Kelsay is a lawyer of fine ability and a man of strict honor and integrity, he would certainly fill the office of Governor with credit to himself and to the people of Oregon.

Darius.

There is no doubt that when plenty of gold ore is found, yet it will take a considerable sum of money to prospect the country and develop the deposits.—Times.

TELEGRAMS.

San Francisco, March 24.—The Sankey law cases were called in the police court this morning and adjourned for one month.

New York, March 24.—The Tribune's Washington correspondent says of the passage of the Chinese bill: A leading democrat in the house said to me to-day, I am opposed to the whole theory of the bill and would like to vote against it, but I must keep solid with my constituents and am afraid for any amendment. This is the feeling of many others, both democrats and republicans, who voted for the bill last night.

St. Paul, March 23.—The sitting as a court of impeachment, met in open session to-day and formally certified its judgment against Judge Cox, implicated for drunkenness. His sentence is removal from office and disqualification from judicial office for three years.

Springfield, Ill., March 24.—Information from nearly every section of the state represents crop prospect unusually flattering. Winter wheat looks well and plowing is about well advanced. In some parts of northern Illinois it is feared the fruit crop may fail. Farmers report stock in 10 to 20 percent better condition than this time last year.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 23.—Frank and Henry Rumburg were arrested at 10:40 A. M. for the murder of Daniel Troutman. Both men ascended the scaffold with firmness. Religious services were very brief and at the conclusion the accused adjourned. The judge pulled the rope over their eyes and almost immediately the trap sprang. The criminals died easily, their necks being broken by the fall.

City of Mexico, March 24.—President Gonzalez in an interview to-day with the Washington correspondent said that he was friendly and appreciative of the National Railway Co.'s efforts in prosecuting its work. The president authorized Gen. Palmer to state that he would assist the company both officially and personally.

Washington, March 23.—The secretary of war has issued a special order discharging Cadet Whittaker from the military academy on the recommendation of the academy board because of deficiency in studies. General McDowell will very shortly be retired. This arrangement has been made since the appearance of Grant in Washington. Rear Admiral Gustavus H. Scott, U. S. Navy, retired, died last night.

New Orleans, March 25.—At a meeting of a committee representing various associations it was resolved to abandon the idea of celebrating the bi-centennial anniversary of LaSalle's discovery of the mouth of the Mississippi. The action is based on the distressing condition of affairs in the Mississippi valley.

Brussels, March 25.—An American lawyer named Goodhue has been arrested on charges involving several million of francs belonging to the bishopric of Tournay.

St. Louis, March 25.—The government steamer Cleopatra has returned from her trip to distribute rations for flood sufferers in the south and will again be loaded with corn-meal and bacon and depart Tuesday.

New York, March 25.—Miss Piote Cousins, the well known woman suffrage advocate, has applied to Arthur to be appointed one of the United States commissioners to reorganize Utah under the recent act of congress. A numerous signed petition for her appointment will be sent to the president in a few days.

San Francisco, March 25.—While the City of Tokio was entering the harbor to-day she was boarded by two United States duty men who arrested John Hennessey, purser, and Henry Kennedy, steward. These parties were arrested on suspicion of being engaged in smuggling opium into this port from Hongkong. Their room was searched and nothing suspicious was found. They were admitted to bail in $5000 each, and will be examined to-morrow before the United States Commissioner.

Tombstone, March 25.—Mr. Peepie, engineer of the Tombstone Mill Company, was assaulted in his office at Charleston last night by masked men, who entered the office and shot him down. Mr. Ansfin, superintendent, who was in the office with Peepie, was not hurt. Motive unknown.

Austin, March 25.—To-day a young man named Austin Parrot fell down a shaft at Austin mine striking on the 280-foot station, which stopped his possible descent to a distance of 800 feet, though the foot was injured, not killed. While assisting in unearthing him, Cass, Curly fell down the shaft and was horribly mangled and killed.

London, March 25.—The Observer thus closes its tribute to Longfellow: "It is scarcely too much to say that since the death of Byron no living English poet enjoyed so much popularity as Longfellow."

Dublin, March 25.—In the commons the under secretary of foreign affairs said that the government was considering the representation of the United States regarding trial or release of Americans imprisoned under the coercion act.

San Rafael, Cal., March 25.—A report has just come in that R. T. Warren, an old resident of this county, and for some time past doing business in California Market, San Francisco, was shot dead this evening by a man who was in his employ. No particulars.

Washington, March 25.—It is understood the president in selecting the five commissioners for Utah territory, will nominate only lawyers, believing good lawyers will be required to properly explain the territorial government. It is stated several leading citizens of Utah have already been recommended to the president, but it is not likely any one from Utah, Mormon or Gentile, will be appointed. It is further reported the president has indicated he will not appoint anyone who applies either directly or indirectly for the position of honor.

New York, March 27.—The Mail and Express says: Henry Villard is quoted as saying that dividends will be paid next fall on the Oregon Transcontinental railroad stock.

Galveston, March 25.—Six colored convicts working on the Texas Pacific road, today, killed their guard and escaped. Two fled into Mexico, but the others were pursued and two captured and two killed.
